

Fielding Line & Space
Curated by Heather Marx & Steven Sergiovanni

A group exhibition with Katy Cowan, Christopher Robin Duncan, Dana Hemenway, Ned Smyth, Ryan Wallace and Almond Zigmund

June 22, 2024, through July 7, 2024

This exhibition is in East Hampton

The Fireplace Project in Hudson opens June 28, 2024, for the inaugural exhibition with Lydia Rubio

Fielding Line & Space is a group exhibition featuring Six artists from the East & West coasts. It bridges Marx's & Sergiovanni's interests in line, shape, color and form, bringing together artists to engage in, and expand on a dialogue between the two coasts. Cowan, Duncan and Hemenway are from the San Francisco Area; while Smyth, Wallace and Zigmund are based in New York.

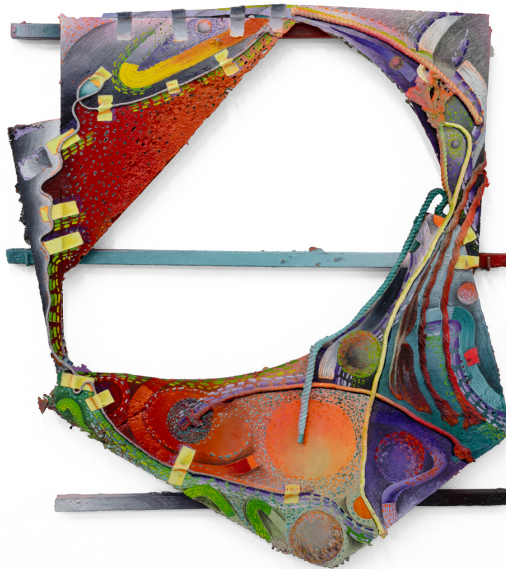

Using mixed materials, they create works informed by an awareness of construction/deconstruction, tension, geometry, and fluid forms. Often collaged, excised, and layered, the artists re-envision spaces that exist untethered to any specific boundary in time, space and material.

Heather Marx is a San Francisco based art advisor and curator. Her former gallery, Marx & Zavattero, was a leading contemporary gallery from 2001-2013, after which she launched HMxAA. Steven Sergiovanni is based in New York and East Hampton. He founded his advisory service in 2015, after working with galleries for over 30 years. Both are members of the Association of Professional Art Advisors (APAA). This is their first curatorial collaboration.
